Rostering & Scheduling - it doesn't need to be difficult!

Why has Intellinet got so many retail customers? We think it's down to one key reason: simple and intuitive operation for store managers.

No matter how good your system, in a store environment, if it's too complicated for the manager the system will never be successful.

At Intellinet, we have put a huge investment into ensuring that our IntellinetStaff application hides the complexity from the store manager.

A colour coding system allows the manager to allocate the relevant staff to the time slots required. How much simpler could it be?
